

Welcome to EON CITY

Fighting the way to a brighter tomorrow

Riverside

Century Heights

Whitesmith Lake

The Rise

Century National Forest

Industrial District

Lloodywright District

Hubbard District

Albert J. Rothchild International Airport

Blair Hills

Dumpling District

Quetzal Row

Century Celebration Nation

Steam District

Old Town

Waterside

Millionaire Mile

Harper Bay

Arsene Woods

A CITY FULL OF HISTORY

Eon City, the shining gem on America's East Coast.

Originally founded in 1755 as Harper's Bay, Eon City was a small town covering the area now known as Old Town. A thriving fishing industry quickly developed, and word of the town's natural deep water bay soon attracted many shipping companies to the town.

By the end of the Revolutionary War, Harper's Bay had grown across the northern edge of the bay and was beginning to grow up the Hubbard River. On New Year's Day, 1800, a brand-new cathedral was dedicated and opened to the people. St. Anastasia's still stands to this day as a model of classic gothic construction.

In the mid-19th Century, the Howell and Rothchild families came to prominence and together, ushered Harper's Bay into the Industrial Age. The Howell family diversified into many new industries while the Rothchild family focused more and more on the Entertainment industry.

With the rise of super powered people in the early 20th Century, Harper's Bay frequently found itself the target of villainous plots. The mayor and police commissioner sought out a stable of heroes to form a team and take up residence in Harper's Bay.

The Centurions kept the citizens safe from the machinations of evil doers for nearly 40 years. Several members proudly served in both World Wars.

In 1955, at a celebration for the city's bicentennial, Major Sabre announced the retirement of himself and the rest of the Centurions, and, with the Mayor and Police Commissioner, unveiled the new name of the city: EON CITY.

Through the 60's, superheroes aided the police in keeping the city safe, though without many major threats from supervillains, the citizens began to wonder why they were needed.

An accident in 1982, on the Kirbee Leigh University campus, however, turned the tide of public opinion against superheroes, driving many of them into retirement.

However, when the cosmic force known as Sol Invictus arrived seeking a sacrifice, a new team of Centurions united to defeat it. Superheroes are slowly becoming a more common sight in Eon City once again.

Now, those super powered individuals aid our local heroes in keeping the citizens of Eon City safe, and ensuring that we will remain a Bright Light for the Future!

Old Town

The oldest section of the city. Old Town is home to an eclectic mix of storefronts and coffee shops found amongst the winding streets and alleys of this colorful district.

Key Locations:

- The Old Town Fish Market
- Old West Cafe

Waterside

One of the first areas the city expanded into. Waterside is characterized by its narrow streets, tall houses, and high property values.

Key Locations:

- The Strange Aeons Lounge
- The Harper Bay Yacht Club

The Steam District

The port district of Eon City. The Steam District earned its name from the steam ships that frequented the port when it was first expanded. Bustling docks, shipyards, and warehouses become a fog-draped labyrinth when the sun goes down.

Key Locations:

- The Foghorn Tavern
- Howell Shipping

Millionaire Mile

In the late 19th Century, the wealthiest families flocked to this stretch of road, wanting to cash in on proximity to the Rothchild Manor and the Howell Estate.

Key Locations:

- Rothchild Manor

Blair Hills

An artistic district on the north side of the Hubbard River. Galleries, art supply stores, theatres, jazz clubs, all can be found on, or under, the streets of Blair Hills.

Key Locations:

- The Century Gallery
- Harper's Bay Museum
- The Rothchild Center for Performing Arts

Quetzal Row

The poorest stretch of Eon City. Largely considered a blight on the landscape of the Bright City. Despite a heavy police presence, crime has been steadily climbing in Quetzal Row.

Key Locations:

- Undertow Bar and Grill
- BelowRow

Hubbard

One of the oldest sections of the city. Defined by old world architecture and gothic style. It took its cues from St. Anastasia's and the European influences from the shipping companies that frequently set up offices in this district.

Key Locations:

- St. Anastasia's Cathedral
- Kirbee Leigh University
- Museum of Natural History

Dumpling District

Part of a large-scale renovation done in the Blair Hills district in 1983. The Dumpling District has become a concentration of eateries of all sizes and descriptions.

Key Locations:

- Chez le Chez
- Blink's Bar

Lloydwright

A district heavily redeveloped in the 1980's. Lloydwright was once the center of Eon City's industry until much of that dried up and made way for the rising tech industry. The city undertook a redevelopment that took most of its inspiration from the Art Deco movement.

Key Locations:

- Riverbend Park
- Saber Plaza
- Simone Academy

Century Heights

The neighborhood of the tech industry's wealthy CEOs. Set up on the hills between Whitesmith Lake and Century National Forest, these sprawling homes bask in the light from the towers where their owners work.

Key Locations:

- Whitesmith Marina
- The abandoned Whitmore House

The Rise

The new, high-tech heart of Eon City. Made of towering, interconnected skyscrapers housing companies on the bleeding edge of technology. The entire district sits on top of an underground plaza with shops, restaurants, and even parks.

Key Locations:

- Howell Industries HQ
- Rothchild Entertainment HQ
- The UnderRise Plaza

The Industrial District

Even high tech industries require warehouses and assembly lines. Those that aren't outsourced can be found in the last remnant of the city's industrial age.

Key Locations:

- Biowave Assembly
- Howell Manufacturing

Century National Forest

Once part of the Howell Estate, it was donated to the National Forestry Service in 1855 as the Century Nature Reserve, and became a National Park in 1884.

Key Locations:

- The Golden Maple

Century Celebration Nation

In 1955, Rothchild Entertainment CEO Nathaniel Rothchild attended the Opening Day of Disneyland in California. He returned to Eon City and declared that he would build a park to rival it. Century Celebration Nation opened 22 years later, on the last day of Nathaniel Rothchild's tenure as CEO, and his daughter Emma's first day.

Key Locations:

- USS Ticonderoga
- Centurion Tower

Arsene Woods

The Arsene Woods mark the boundary of the modern Howell Estate. They are home to a pack of endangered wolves whose howls can be heard in Eon City on a quiet night.

Key Locations:

- Howell Mansion

Albert J. Rothchild International Airport

One of the few modern joint ventures undertaken by Howell Industries and Rothchild Entertainment. It was opened in 1969 to much fanfare, though it has failed to establish itself as a hub.

Key Locations:

- The Saber One Memorial

Riverside

A small town on the far side of a hill from Eon City. Per the locals, nothing ever happens in Riverside. They swear.

Key Locations:

- Nothing worth your time
- Head on home, city kid